The method presented in this paper is designed to collect and purify radiolabelled phosphate in the femur of rats. Bones are immersed in 2 ml of saline containing 1 mg of buffer phosphate. After homogenization, the samples are centrifuged at low speed and the supernatants are obtained. The phosphate is extracted from the sample using 1 ml of 0.3 M NaOH, and separated from organic substances, which are also removed, using Dowex 50WX4, in acidic conditions. The purified radiolabelled phosphate is eluted from the column using 2 ml of 1 M HCl. The combination of these procedures resulted in the collection of 21, 12.2 and 3.3% of the injected dose per bone for 45 min, 5 h and 24 h, respectively.[Effects of the structure of bulks based on new metal-organic framework MIL-53 on the adsorption of low-molecular organic compounds].

The effects of the structure of bulks based on new metal-organic frameworks MIL-53 on the adsorption of low-molecular organic compounds was investigated. Comparing with the bulk-MIL-53-based bulks synthesized by traditional solid-liquid mixing approach, bulks based on MOFs with three different structures, cubocta d0c515b9f4

Description of the Related Art In a digital video/audio reproducing apparatus and a digital video/audio recording apparatus, a rewritable medium such as a Compact Disc (CD) or Digital Versatile Disc (DVD) is used as a recording medium for recording a digital video/audio data stream. When a video/audio data stream is recorded on a rewritable medium, a Data Table is recorded on the medium along with the video/audio data stream to determine a user's operation mode, for example, Play (play back), Fast Forward (FF), Rewind (REW), Previous (PRV), Fast Forward-Pause (FF-P), Rewind Pause (REW-P), etc. FIG. 1 illustrates a data table, which includes a User Mode Table A and a Mode Control Table B according to the prior art. The Table A contains user's operation modes such as Play, Fast Forward, Rewind, Previous, Fast Forward-Pause, and Rewind Pause. On the other hand, the Mode Control Table B contains mode control information such as a radio frequency (RF) burst identification, a search window (search_window), a track number (track), and a record power (record_power). The RF burst identification and the search window are recording information for a read-only area, the track number and the record power are recording information for a recordable area, and the search window is a data area for setting operation mode information. The Mode Control Table B contains a sequence control table in which sequence information is recorded in order for a mode control area to use, for example, the user's mode, a search window, a track number, and a record power. The sequence control table includes a track number generation table for generating a track number, a record power generation table for generating a record power, a search window generation table for generating a search window, and a sequence control table for indicating whether to search a current track using the search window and for managing a sequence of searching the current track. For example, the sequence control table includes
