In 2015, we were told that, for economic reasons, the project would be "closed". The town council of almost 1,500 inhabitants decided to take on a project that was on the rise in popularity: the construction of its first solar thermal plant. Situated at the confluence of the Chaudiere River and the Ottawa River, Ste-Eulalie is a picturesque and popular town with a population of around 12,000. Its main industries are farming and forestry, but in 2007, we began the operation of the first solar thermal plant in our region. The 20-megawatt (MW) plant produces a median temperature of 69.2°C and has an average production of 50 MW per year. The Rethink Energy project 0cc13bf012

TUMBLR SHIRT WEAR In the northern parts of Greece, May Day is commemorated by the processions of the Kontakion (Prayer) and the Paraklesma (Liberation). These processions are attended by thousands of people and are accompanied by folk dancing, traditional Greek music, fire works, boating and much more. On May Day, May 1st, 1968, thousands of people took part in a protest procession in the centre of Athens. Athens has become the undisputed center of the protest movement in Greece, with the main working class districts such as Exarcheia and Kypseli being central to the development of a wide support network and social movement. It has also become a major trade union center, with the KKE (Communist party of Greece) consistently outstripping other leftist parties in membership, elections and success in mobilizing the working class.
